

EDITORIAL / УВОДНИК

Dear and Honorable Colleagues,

For us at the Serbian Archives of Medicine, the beginning of 2021 is a time to first and foremost thank our reviewers whose help was invaluable at an unprecedented time for mankind. The majority of us have never had such an experienced in our lives. Although fighting for their patients' lives, exhausted for months and even hospitalized due to COVID-19, they would still reply to emails and process reviews for the Serbian Archives of Medicine, showing an admirable collegiality despite all professional and personal misfortunes. We are convinced their dedication was part of their noble mission to help the 148 year-long tradition of the Serbian Medical Society and its official journal stand the cruel test of time that spared no one.

We are deeply indebted to our international reviewers as well, for their respective corners of the world may have suffered differently depending on the time of the year, but devastatingly facing the same consequences eventually. Yet, time and again, medicine and science showed that they know no borders in the most inspiring of ways.

Back in January 2020 (Srp Arh Celok Lek 2020 Jan–Feb;148(1–2):6–9), I tried to raise our readership's awareness of burnout, a work-related syndrome, which has nowadays reached an epidemic level, and therefore has been recognized by the World Health Organization. My awareness of the problem among our doctors was a result of 40 years in pedagogy – as a Professor of Gross Anatomy at Belgrade University's Faculty of Medicine and visiting professor at the Faculty of Pharmacy (Belgrade, Serbia) and Georgetown University's School of Medicine (Washington DC, USA) – and I still deem further burnout-related research in Serbia sorely needed.

Unfortunately, the March 2020 outbreak of COVID-19 pandemic made us all fight for nothing but mere survival. So many lives were lost both here and worldwide, and so many more irreversibly changed. Serbia is grieving its fallen frontline healthcare workers and is sadly yet to face all the burdens of later complications, as the rest of the planet did. But, we expect all involved in healthcare to keep researching and endeavoring to diminish both acute and chronic losses, for all our casualties are far from fully counted and accounted for. We, at the Serbian Archives of Medicine, aiming to help our readers with timely scientific content, processed and offered expedited publication of all COVID-19 related papers of both national and international authors with the highest priority. I would like to take this opportunity to apologize to all other authors whose manuscripts got delayed in the process, due to that reason.

Finally, we owe special gratitude to reviewers who contributed the most in 2020. Ranked as the first, second and the third review winner due to slight differences in the number of reviews they did in 2020 are the following: the first being professor Nevena Kalezić [University of Belgrade, Faculty of Medicine, (UBFM), University Clinical Center of Serbia, Belgrade, Serbia], the 2nd, Professor Slobodan Savić (UBFM, Institute of Forensic Medicine "Milovan Milovanović", Belgrade, Serbia), and the third one is shared between professors Nensi Lalić (University of Novi Sad, Faculty of Medicine, Institute for Pulmonary Diseases of Vojvodina, Novi Sad, Serbia), Ivan Palibrk (UBFM, University Clinical Centre of Serbia, Belgrade Serbia) and Ljubomir Todorović (University of Belgrade, School of Dental Medicine, Belgrade Serbia).

We hope the 2020 experience of adversity, availability of new vaccines worldwide, and more social solidarity will help us soon embrace the "new normal" in a serene and happier way.
